Square pegs in round holes

The expression Art is long, Life is short suggesting that works of art last much longer than human lives may require modification of its message in the current scenario of galloping advances in science and technology necessitating unavoidable adjustments in the daily life of people at large, given both postulates of science witnessing scrutiny and products of technology witnessing obsolescence by the day. The emergence of digital technology, electronic devices such as the computer and inventions in the field of material science such as nano particles have not only rendered most of the time-honoured tools and their manufacturing processes but also taken away many jobs that were the mainstay of earning livelihoods for people at large. The case of the film-based photography using conventional camera, sending the device to the museum looms large in this context. Any generation that fails to take note of the aforementioned advances and adopt the resultant modifications in materials and methods is bound to get stranded in life, similar to the senior citizens of our times.

Even as there is absolutely no choice in giving up lifestyle of even periods not too long past and adopt and adjust to the emerging style in daily life, the task of grooming the children to survive and prosper in days ahead is both responsibility and duty of the present genre of teachers and parents.

The issues of educating and training for creating human resources with capabilities of remaining competent and competitive in the world of future seem to be staring managements of companies, particularly in the manufacturing and services sector in the context of (a) Ability to recognise and gauge ability and (b) Recruit personnel for clearly defined jobs. An expert has cautioned that miss-hiring cost companies more than 25 times the package offered to the employee. The inadequacy in the current content of syllabus in the courses at the stages from School to University in the country has been debated and discussed ad nauseam, but to no avail. A cognizant study has reportedly identified 21 jobs, the names of which can send us to a tizzy, as they become a reality in next decade. Cyber calamity forecaster, man-machine teaming manager, artificial intelligence-assisted technician for healthcare, vertical farm consultant and so on are some examples.

In sum, if the nuances of educating and training children of this generation to match the already emerging strides in life are not changed, the country is bound to have a mass of human resources similar to square pegs in round holes.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

CHILDHOOD'S END : When I was a child growing up in what was then called Calcutta, the most heavenly place on earth for me was Paragon, on Park Street. Paragon was Calcutta's biggest and best toy shop. It had everything that a little boy — or a little girl — could wish for, and more. But now it seems that childhood is no more about such toys, which appear to have become as obsolete as Lego building blocks or the hula hoop, Whatever they were.

So if they don't have toys, don't kids play anymore? They do, but it's a different sort of playing altogether, one which requires very little or no imagination at all. Kids today play electronic video games — generally of an extremely violent nature which involve blowing up your opponents before they can blow you up — which are programmed according to a set scenario. You don't have to create a make-believe world for yourself; it's already created for you. I'm told these video games are very addictive and kids get hooked on them, the way they do on fast foods and sugary soft drinks. But like fast foods which don't provide much nourishment for the body, video games don't provide much nourishment for the mind to play at make-believe, and create new worlds for itself, which is part and parcel of the process we call growing up. Childhood? I'm afraid the game's up for that, quite literally. — Jug Suraiya in The Times of India.

Father of 9 divorces wife on knowing he was sterile

Sidi Slimane: A father of nine children divorced after coming to know that he was sterile most of his life.

The man, a Professor in the small Moroccan city of Sidi Slimane, reportedly had his whole world turned upside down by an urologist, following a routine checkup. The physician decided to run some tests, and while the results showed nothing life-threatening, they told the unnamed man that he was sterile. The only problem was that he had been happily married to his wife for 35 years, and was supposed to have fathered nine children during that time.

Shocked by this revelation, the man contacted his lawyer and filed a lawsuit against his wife, accusing her of adultery and demanding both a divorce and the disownment of all of his nine children.

Stork travels 14,000 km to meet disabled mate

Croatia: A male stork, from the past 16 years is flying 14,000 km from his winter home in South Africa to a small village in Croatia, Europe, to be with his handicapped mate, who cannot fly due to an old gunshot wound.

The amazing love story between Klepetan and Malena has made the two storks celebrities in Croatia. Every March, the male stork flies back to the village of Brodski Varos, where Malena is waiting for him.

They mate and have new babies each year, which Klepetan then teaches how to fly, before migrating with them to South Africa. The injured female stays behind, as she cannot fly, but she's always well taken care of during the cold winter.

71-year-old Stjepan Vokic, a local school caretaker, adopted Malena in 1993, after finding her near a pond. She had been injured by hunters, and would have surely ended up as a meal for foxes or other predators, but he took her home and nursed her back to health.

Pushpalatha Jagannath of Cong. is new Mayor

Shafi Ahmed of JD(S) Deputy

Mysuru, Nov. 17 (PM&BCT)- The coalition partners Congress and JD(S) successfully passed the litmus test of Mayoral Election this morning with Pushpalatha Jagannath of Congress being elected as Mayor and Shafi Ahmed of the JD(S) being elected as the Deputy Mayor.

The Mayoral polls were held at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar auditorium at Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) premises at around 11.30 am. While Pushpalatha Jagannath is the Corporator from Ward 11 Shanthinagar (Mahadevapura Road), Shafi Ahmed is the Corporator from Ward 31 K.N. Pura (Ghousianagar). Pushpalatha was the Deputy Mayor in 2010.

In the 65-member Council, Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) had bagged 22 seats emerging as the single largest party, Congress won 19 seats, Janata Dal (Secular) 18 seats.

Five seats were won by Independents and one seat was won by Bahujan Samaj Party. The coalition partners resolved to forge a post-poll alliance to keep the BJP out of power.

CONGRATULATIONS: Newly-elected Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath and Deputy Mayor Shafi Ahmed.

In the election, Pushpalatha Jagannath bagged 48 votes and was elected the Mayor and she defeated BJP candidate Sunanda Palanethra who secured 24 votes. Shafi Ahmed polled 48 votes and was elected the Deputy Mayor and he defeated M. Satish of BJP who secured 24 votes.

For the election, the Congress (19 seats) had 21 votes (one MLA Tanveer Sait and one MLC R. Dharmasena) and the JD(S) (18 seats) had 22 votes (Minister G.T. Devegowda, MLCs Marithibbegowda, Sandesh Nagaraj and K.T. Srikantegowda). The BJP (22 seats) had 24 votes (MP Pratap Simha, MLA S.A. Ramdas and L. Nagendra).

Disneyland at Brindavan Gardens

"Will not give up land," say farmers

Mandya Deputy Commissioner Manjushree and other officials inspecting the land for the proposed project.

Mandya / Mysuru, Nov. 17 (Nagaiah&BCT)- The State Government's plan to develop KRS Dam and Brindavan Gardens on the lines of Disneyland Park in California has not gone down well with many in Mandya especially farmers as they fear that they will lose their land. Farmers have said that their fertile land will be snatched by the government and they will be rendered homeless and jobless.

A day after the Mandya District Administration launched the government land identification exercise for the proposed mega project, residents and farmers around KRS said they were not ready to give up their land. As per the government plans, along with the existing 200 acres of land available at KRS, an additional 400 acres was required for the mega project that will cost over Rs. 2,000 crore.

Residents of Hongahalli, Chikkayarahalli and surrounding villages attached to the Reservoir held meetings where they announced their stand of fighting against the land acquisition with unity. The farmers said they were not against the project, but only against giving up their land for any tourism-related permanent projects. At the meeting venue, they shouted slogans against the government move to acquire their lands and snatch their livelihood.

Young couple killed by family in Mandya to 'save honour'

- Killers tie hands and legs, strangulate and throw bodies at Shivanasamudra; click photos
- Victim sent SOS to employer at 2.15 am that stated "Anna kidnap Kanakapura"

Mandya, Nov.17 (Nagaiah& BCT)- In what has turned out to be a case of 'honour killing,' a young couple from Hosur in Krishnagiri district in Tamil Nadu has been found brutally murdered. The bodies of the couple, who went missing a few days ago, were recovered from the Cauvery River in Mandya district under the jurisdiction of Belakavadi Police Station.

On Nov.14, the Police found the body of a man floating in Cauvery River near Shivanasamudra. Two days later (on Friday), the body of a young woman surfaced at the same spot. The Police later established their identities as 22-year-old Nandish and 21-year-old Swathi who were found missing. Nandish, an Adi Dravida belonged to Venkateshpuram village near Shoolakondapalli in Hosur, fell in love with Swathi who belonged to the Vanniyar caste. They married against the wishes of their parents and went missing from their houses three months ago.

Police said that the 'honour killing,' was allegedly orchestrated by Swathi's father Srinivasan.

Love and marriage: Nandish completed his ITI course and was working in an engineering firm at Hosur when he fell in love with Swathi who was pursuing a course in a women's college in Krishnagiri. In August, they married against the wishes of their parents. They registered their marriage in September and had moved out of Shoolakondapalli village and began their married life in Hosur town.

Nandish

Go missing: However, the couple went missing on Nov.11 and Nandish's brother Shankar lodged a complaint with Hosur Police. The complaint stated that the couple went to buy clothes and visit a relative in a village in Hosur but never returned home.

Meanwhile, the Mandya Police found the body of Nandish and Swathi and shared photos of the bodies with all Police Stations, including in neighbouring Tamil Nadu. Investigations revealed that the couple was kidnapped from Hosur and murdered in Mandya.

Kamal Haasan meeting: The Police said that on Nov.10, the couple attended a public meeting where actor-politician Kamal Haasan was to speak. A distant relative of Swathi, who was also at the meeting, saw the couple and he called Swathi's father Srinivasan who was in Hosur looking for the couple.

As soon as the event ended, the couple were surrounded by Srinivasan and others. After a long argument, they convinced the couple to go with them to a Police Station to sort the matter out. However, instead of a Police Station, the couple was driven to Shivanasamudra where Srinivasan and the others thrashed Nandish, accusing him of humiliating them in the society by marrying their 'upper caste' daughter.

Nandish even questioned Srinivasan why were they being taken on a different route (along Kanakapura) and for which Srinivasan replied that they were going to a Hanuman Temple at Shivanasamudra.

Bone-chilling crime: Police said that around 3 am on Nov.11, as Swathi watched, they tied Nandish's hands and feet, strangulated him and threw him into the river. Swathi met the same fate minutes later with her hands and legs tied with her own dupatta. Not stopping at this, the killers clicked the photographs of the bone-chilling crime. The photographs shared by the Police narrate a tale of extreme violence against the couple during their final hours.

Accused arrested: Mandya Police reached Krishnagiri district as soon as they received the information and arrested Srinivasan. Yesterday, Swathi's uncles Venkatesh, Ashwathappa, a relative Krishnan, cousin Venkatraj and driver Samyanathan who helped Srinivasan kill the couple were arrested.

Police said that Srinivasan has admitted to killing his daughter and her husband. Prima Facie it appears to be an 'honour killing' case. Srinivasan said that he was forced to get rid of the couple as there was opposition in the village to the inter-caste marriage.

SOS to employer: Nandish was an ardent follower of B.R. Ambedkar and would wear clothes with Ambedkar's picture on them. This helped the Police identity the victim. Sometime back, Swathi had filed a Police complaint stating that if anything happened to her, her relatives should be held responsible. Apparently, Nandish sent an SOS to his employer at 2.15 am on Nov.11 that read: "Anna kidnap Kanakapura."

12-year-old girl raped, murdered in Nanjangud

Senior Police officials visit crime spot, collect samples

Nanjangud, Nov.17 (RS&SR)- In a shocking incident that has rattled the residents of Nanjangud, a 12-year-old girl was raped and murdered at Chamalapurahundi yesterday. Police are now suspecting that it is a gang rape where rapists barged into the house where the girl was alone, committed the crime and killed the victim to destroy evidence.

The girl was studying in seventh standard and her father is a push cart food vendor and her mother works at a factory as a daily wage labourer. Yesterday, the girl did not go school though she wore her uniform in the morning. Thinking that their daughter would go to school, her parents had left the house. However, by the time they returned home at around 4.30 pm, their daughter had been raped and murdered.

Scratch marks were found on her face and other parts of the body and blood stains were found all over the house. Police suspect that the rapists strangulated the girl to death after sexually assaulting her. After discovering their daughter's plight, her parents carried the dead body outside the house and started wailing.

Meanwhile, residents alerted the Police who rushed to the spot. Chamarajanagar Superintendent of Police Dharmendra Kumar Meena, who is also incharge of Mysuru district, Additional Superintendent of Police Sneha, Nanjangud Dy.SP Mallik, Circle Inspector Shekar, Rural Police Sub-Inspector Punith and other Police officials visited the spot.

The crime scene was closely examined by dog squad, finger print and forensic science experts and they found several semen samples.

The victim's house is located at an industrial area and there are only a few houses. Tracing the scent, the dog squad went around in a radius of three to four kilometres from the house and returned to the crime scene without giving any clues to the Police.

Plea to ease traffic congestion

Sir,

Of late, vehicular traffic has increased on MG Road-Harishchandra Ghat Road junction. There were road humps on both sides of this busy junction before the new JSS Hospital was opened but they were removed for smooth passage during the visit of the then President of India who dedicated the hospital to Mysureans.

Unfortunately, the speed-breakers were not put back by the Traffic Police. On behalf of the safety of hundreds of motorists, who ply on this stretch, I request the Traffic Department to reinstall the humps.

Secondly, I urge the authorities to construct a 'bus bay' near Gun House Circle to ease traffic congestion at the bus shelter located close to the auto stand at the Circle. At present, buses shuttling to and from Chamarajanagar, Gundlupet, Nanjangud and two Inter-State services stop in the middle of the Road thereby risking the lives of passengers and inconveniencing other motorists.

I had brought this issue to the notice of the Krishnaraja Traffic Police about two years ago during a public grievances meet at the Police Station where they had assured that the Road would be widened and bus bay built, but so far no action has been taken.

Thirdly, the vehicular movement is on the rise at Jayachamarajendra Statue Circle (Hardinge Circle) where six roads converge. As a precautionary measure, I request the City Top Cop and the Traffic Police to install signal lights at the Circle before any accidents take place.

I hope my suggestions will be considered at the earliest in the interest of tax-paying citizens.

Close to 70 lakh fans follow Bollywood actress Malaika Arora while only 22 thousand for Indian Olympic boxer Mary Kom.

It's celebrity wedding season and it has begun with Ranveer Singh - Deepika Padukone getting married at Lake Como. If you are wondering, "Where is this Lake?!" you are not alone. Because for the last two days if you type "Lake..." in Google the first choice in the intuitive drop down menu box is "Lake Como." This means most people in India have been searching for Lake Como on Google. This also shows how interested we are in the lives of our celebrities. And when there is so much voyeuristic interest, there is money to be made.

No wonder, Priyanka Chopra and her soon-to-be-hubby are set to make Rs. 18 crore by selling their wedding photos according to India Today magazine !

Stardom is fleeting and today's stars want to make hay while the sun shines. But while they harvest their fame, do they also have to use their children? How far will they go to make money and how ignorant are the media consumers today?

Some of us may remember, in November 2011, 30 infants died in West Bengal and the whole nation was worried, but only a little; because we were more worried about another infant, the arrival of Bachchan baby.

Many may recall when the media found out that Aishwarya was pregnant, they asked: "Is Ash going to have a C-section so the baby can be born on 11.11.11?"

The C-section rumours upset the Bachchans so much that they released an over-sentimental press note saying that the media had permanently damaged the Bachchan family's reputation by ridiculously insinuating that such an esteemed and respected family would turn nature's course for blind and sensationalised beliefs.

If the Bachchans were so concerned about their privacy, may be the Big Bachchan should have kept his "tweety" fingers tied up and the junior Bachchan should not have used his impending fatherhood to make money. Why did he have to do an advertisement for Idea cellular service where he is asked "and your baby...?" to which he replies, "Before 3G."

The moment you take money for your private activities to be made public, you have no right to seek privacy. In fact, it is not an invasion of privacy when you have colluded with the media, it's a business agreement.

In fact, today there is immense collusion between the media and the stars. The reader or media consumer must ask themselves how a down-market actress, who has not had a movie in years, still in the news and affording those holidays to foreign beaches that we see splashed in media websites and the star's social media?

While actors pay the media to put those pictures to remain relevant, there are others who get paid ! It turns out that some media houses have realised that there is high consumption of bikini photos of actresses so these companies buy the actor a ticket and room in a beach resort and in return, the actress must send back bikini photos !

These photos increase the media website's traffic and its readership ! By the way, these are the headlines on the photo gallery of a national daily as of this morning — "Rhea Chakraborty turns up the heat," "Bruna's Sensuous Pictures," "Disha Patani ups the hotness quotient."

Another national media has this headline for a photo gallery, "Through the pages of Aaradhya Bachchan's birthday special dinner." Really?! A national media is publishing a 7-year-old child's birthday pictures? And this child's parents allowed it and they talk about privacy?

No wonder politicians loot because we are busy staring at actors' bikini photos and a star child's birthday pictures.

Social media has added to this craze. Today many actresses are surviving on having income by posting sexy selfies. This increases their followers and so some company will approach them to hold their product in a photo for which they charge.

So much for standing up for feminism, female empowerment and fight against objectification of women by these very stars — Hypocrites all.

Now, it's not just celebrities, even ordinary people want to be celebrities. They all want to become "social influencers" — the new catchphrase. But influence people to do what? There are a few female trainers who have more followers than professional athletes !

Many are followed not because they inspire people to get fit but because they are eye candy in sexy gym clothes. When I spoke to a few cocky youngsters in the gym about this, one said "she is not thaaat inspiring but she is eye candy and..." before he could finish another boy added, "it helps you when you are lonely and want to get handsy" and laughed. Ugh!

Today everyone wants to be somebody. From an IT start-up company CEO to a housewife, all want to be celebrities in some form or shape. In fact, a newspaper in Bengaluru credits the success of its supplement solely on publishing pictures of people partying on its Page 3.

When I met the late Editor of this particular edition of the paper and asked about Page 3 he said, "Yes, indeed it's shallow, but it sells. People like to see other people, especially if they are good looking, wear nice clothes, are fit and showing some skin. It's vicarious pleasure!"

Maybe he is right. Don't we all use Facebook more to see other people's photos rather than networking?

When most of us live in such celebrity-obsessed world, where, instead of consuming content that is relevant we want to ogle at Disha Patani upping her hotness quotient, it is an indication of our Intelligence Quotient (IQ).

No wonder, our PM talks of 'Vikas'... but gives us something 'jhakaas' like a huge statue instead of an effective Anti-Corruption Bill or Jobs. And we remain dumb about it. Guess, he is appealing to our IQ levels.

Tailor-made for Men in Khaki

Roopesh of Mahatma Tailoring Shop displaying uniforms and other accessories at his shop in city.

Most people can identify a Police Officer by the official uniform. When citizens on a busy street are in need of help, they scan the crowds of pedestrians looking for the distinctive uniform of a Police Officer. Criminals usually curb their unlawful behaviour when they spot a uniformed Police Officer.

What is so special about a uniform that is usually hot and uncomfortable to wear? The crisp uniform of the Police Officer conveys power and authority. When a Police Officer puts on his or her uniform the Officer is perceived in a very different way by the public. He or she is viewed as embodying each person's stereotypes about all Police Officers.

Research suggests that clothing has a powerful impact on how people are perceived and this goes for the Police Officers as well. The uniform has been found to have a profound psychological impact on those who view it. Research also tells that even slight alterations to the style of the uniform will change how citizens will perceive the Officer.

And to make the uniform a perfect piece of clothing, there are exclusive tailors in Namma Mysuru who specially cater to the uniformed lot. While one can find at least a couple of tailors on any given stretch of a road, one can rarely find tailors who only stitch Police, Forest and Military uniforms. And these tailors are stitching uniforms since more than 80 years.

These exclusive shops are Mahatma Tailoring Shop on Benki Nawab Street on Irwin Road and Bahadur Store on Ashoka Road. Both have been supplying uniforms and all other accessories to men in uniforms from the days of Maharajas.

These two shops also cater to uniforms of National Cadet Corps, Scouts and Guides, Forest, Excise Departments and also various security agencies. They stitch and supply uniforms to Prisons Department staff, hotel groups, and factories like J.K. Tyre and Kirloskar.

They also supply accessories like caps, shoes, socks, belts, badges, sweaters, lathis, buttons, gloves, name plates, T-shirts and jackets. Shoes are also sold after getting them manufactured from cobblers who are outsourced by the shops after taking foot measurements.

Uniforms for Dasara Mahouts

One of main specialities of Mahatma Tailoring Shop is that it prepares uniforms to Mahouts and Kavadis who take care of Dasara Elephants. This shop has been supplying uniforms to them since the last 30 years. Bahadur Store has earned the recognition for designing and making dresses to erstwhile Maharajas of Mysuru.

Other major customers for these shops are outgoing students of Police Staff Training Academy, Excise, Fire and Emergency, Forest Staff Training Academy and other training places. Also they sell uniforms to school and college students of Vidyavardhaka, Ramakrishna Ashrama, Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, Mahajana and Maharani's. Even women Police Constables visit these shops in large numbers to get their uniforms stitched.

Fire and Emergency Services Department staff and Home Guards, non-government organisations involved in protection of forests have also been ordering uniforms and other accessories to distribute them to Forest Department staff at Bandipur and Nagarahole Tiger Reserves.

Only two sets

Every year, the State government provides two sets of uniforms to Police, Excise and Forest staff from lower rung to high-ranking officials for one year. Those people who want extra sets of uniforms place orders at private shopkeepers like Mahatma Tailoring Shop and Bahadur Store paying money from their own pockets. The Government will not refund for these extra sets of uniforms.

Bahadur Store on Ashoka Road that also deals with uniforms.

As many as 12 professional tailors have been working to prepare these uniforms at Mahatma Tailoring Shop. They work extra hours whenever there will be bulk orders. Otherwise too, department personnel visit the outlet in person to place orders in case their uniforms are damaged and if they need extra.

Uniforms and other accessories of all department personnel are available here ranging from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 5,000 for a set including accessories. Though there are some shops to supply uniforms, these shops have loyal clientele who pass on the legacy to younger generations. Interestingly, Police, Forest Department and Military personnel working in various wings of Indian Army make beeline to place orders.

"I have been purchasing uniforms for the past ten years from this shop. I came all the way from Channapattana Police Training Academy to order uniforms. I heard from my seniors that this shop has retained work quality and has earned a good name in department circles," said Chennabasappa, a Police Constable.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Roopesh who owns Mahatma Tailoring Shop said that his grandfather N.S. Swamy, a retired Army soldier who worked in Pune Battalion had started this shop on Benki Nawab Street in 1947 after his retirement exclusively to cater to uniforms. Roopesh said that he has been continuing this business after his father passed away.

He said that he purchases raw materials to prepare uniforms from Ludhiana in Punjab and New Delhi, famous for selling quality khaki and Army clothes at good prices.

Owners of Bahadur Store Muddasir and Tanveer said that their father Anwar Khan Bahadur opened this shop. "Our father stitched uniforms for Mysore Palace soldiers and designed dresses for Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar. Later, he extended his business of preparing uniforms for Police, Army soldiers and others," they said.

Owners Muddasir and Tanveer with their father Anwar Khan Bahadur and staff at Bahadur Store. Uniforms and accessories are their speciality.

No sale of uniforms to public

Both shop owners said that they would sell uniforms only to Department personnel but not to public as they might misuse them for illegal activities after wearing Indian Army fatigues, impersonating as Police and other Department staff.

"Moreover, there are reports of terrorists infiltrating into India after crossing the borders using Police uniforms and military fatigues to carry out terror attacks on our soil. So we are careful. The identity of the customer who comes to us seeking uniforms is carefully established and ascertained before taking orders," they say.

Kannada Rajyotsava and Deepavali

The last fortnight is significant from two points of view. The first one is Nov. 1 the day Karnataka was born and the year was 1956. This did not happen overnight. People had to fight for a unified Karnataka. Actually, Mysore State was the nucleus of this newly-formed State and the benevolent Maharajas of Mysore State were administrators and development was their motto. People respected the Wadiyars and kings like Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar and Jayachamaraja Wadiyar were looked upon with great veneration. In spite of all these, people believed that independence is the most precious thing and there could be no substitute for it.

The State Reorganisation Committee was constituted. In 1955, Fazal Ali Committee wanted Bellary to be removed from Mysore State and the new State should be named as Mysore State. Fazal Ali Committee report was published and sent to the Lok Sabha. Some suggestions and alterations were made and it was approved on June 10, 1956.

The Rajya Sabha approved it on 25th August, 1956 and it was accepted and signed by the President and became an Act on 31st August 1956. Thus Karnataka blossomed into a reality and Nov. 1 was declared as the Formation Day of Karnataka. Rajyotsava awards were given to achievers in various fields on the occasion.

All these thoughts came to me on Nov. 1 because I had the good fortune of receiving the Rajyotsava Award in 2011, at the hands of the then Chief Minister B.S. Yeddyurappa.

The unification of Karnataka was advocated by Aluru Venkatarao, D. S. Karkki and others. The beautiful poem "Uadayavagali Cheluva Kannada Nadu" became a reality and this song was changed as "Udayavayitu Cheluva Kannada Nadu" sung by (now late) P. Kalinga Rao in his melodious voice.

The Mysore State anthem of Kaayo Sri Gowri Karunalahari... was given up and Jana Gana Mana... became the national anthem. In Mysore city, a young boy Ramaswamy became a martyr and the Deputy Commissioner Nagaraja Rao shot him dead. People have forgotten Nagaraja Rao and most people even do not know him but Ramaswamy of Banavara became immortal because of the famous landmark of Ramaswamy Circle which has the domed lights of the period of the Maharajas of Mysore.

As Ramayana says, Janani Janmabhumischa Swargadapigariyasi; meaning mother and mother land are superior to heaven. That is why it is our sacred duty to celebrate Nov. 1 as an important day every year and it is our duty to pay homage to the persons who sacrificed their lives for their motherland.

The next important celebration during the last fortnight is Deepavali. It is a Sanskrit compound word consisting of Deepa and Avali. The first one means light and avali means a line or a cluster. Its origin is found in mythology. It has two celebrations namely Naraka Chaturdashi and Balipadyami. Narakasura was a wicked demon and was tormenting the people who were performing the duties as enunciated in our ancient texts.

This demon was born when Vishnu had assumed the Varahavatara (boar incarnation). He had performed tapas and obtained a boon in the form of Viashnavaastra. This demon Naraka was ruling in Pragjotishapura and was tormenting people. He gave trouble to Indra and others. Devotees prayed to Sri Krishna, who killed many demons of this lineage. Narakasura waged a war against Sri Krishna and he ultimately killed Narakasura. This is all about Naraka Chaturdashi.

Actually Hindus celebrate it for three weeks from Ashvayuja Krishna Paksha Chaturdashi every year. The celebration is of many types. Hindus take oil bath at the time when moon rises. On the Amavasya (new moon day) devotees offer tarpana through water. It is in honour of Yama or the God of death. People believe that from this day they will not have the fear of death.

On that night people light oil lamps and worship Lakshmi. It is believed that people get not only money but development in all fields. Many Marwaris (business people) start their account books from this day. Hence they celebrate this day by distributing sweets and dry fruits.

For a month people lit oil lamps. In temples at Dharmasthala, Sringeri, Karthika Deepas are lit in thousands and lakhs and it is referred to as Lakshadeepothsava. It is also a day on which Vikrama Saka was started and Sri Krishna lifted Govardhan Mountain and saved the cows. Hence, people worship cows.

Now we may turn to the saint Bali, in whose memory Balipadyami is celebrated. Bali is the son of saint Virochana and grandson of Prahallada. Bali was killed by Indra but because of Mrita Sanjeevini herb, he came back to life. He defeated Indra also and performed Ashwamedha.

Vamana, the son of Aditi, after upanayanam, came to Bali and asked for three feet of the earth but Shukracharya cautioned him not to give. But Bali out of vanity agreed. Vamana measured two feet by measuring earth and sky and asked for the place for the third feet. There was no choice and hence Bali offered his head and Vamana pushed him into the Pathala Loka. Thus Bali, though a good person was full of vanity and naturally he had to pay a price for it.

Naraka Chaturdashi and Balipadyami are celebrated in a variety of ways. But the motto is the punishing the wicked and helping the good.

Mysurean Prof. G. Hemanth Kumar appointed 25th Vice-Chancellor of Mysore Varsity

Mysuru, Nov.17 (RK&NNN)-The long wait for the full-time Vice-Chancellor to the prestigious century-old University of Mysore is at last over with the appointment of Mysuru's own Prof. G. Hemanth Kumar, who is also an alumnus of the University.

On the approval of Governor, who is also the Chancellor of all the State Universities in Karnataka, the Higher Education Department Secretary passed an order yesterday afternoon and appointed Prof. Hemanth Kumar from the Computer Science Department of the University as the 25th Vice-Chancellor.

Last evening, Prof. Hemanth Kumar took charge from in-charge Vice-Chancellor Prof. Aisha M. Sheriff and thus ended the almost 21-month period of the post lying in limbo and in which period the Varsity saw six acting Vice-Chancellors.

The four-member new Search Committee headed by Chairman Prof. K. Narayana Gowda, former Vice-Chancellor of University of Agricultural Sciences that included Prof. B.C. Chapparwal (Governor's nominee), former Vice-Chancellor of Indore Health University; Prof. M. Jagadish Kumar (UGC nominee), Vice-Chancellor of Jawaharlal Nehru University and Prof. S. Chandrashekar (University of Mysore nominee) from Indian Institute of Chemical Technology, Hyderabad, met in Bengaluru on Tuesday and shortlisted three names.

The three names that were shortlisted included Prof. Hemanth Kumar, Prof. Miditala Rani from Political Science Department, University of Mysore and Prof. Hosahatti from Kuvempu University. They were put in a sealed cover and after the approval of Higher Education Minister G.T. Devegowda sent to the Governor's Office for approval.

After the Governor gave his approval choosing the name of Prof. Hemanth Kumar, the order was passed appointing him as the Vice-Chancellor. It may be recalled that apart from nearly 15-20 aspirants for the post from University of Mysore itself there were nearly 82 Professors in all who had applied for the prestigious post.

PROFILE

A bachelor, Prof. Hemanth Kumar, who hails from Mysuru, belongs to the Most Backward Classes (24th House Telugu Chettiar). Born to Poornima Devi and B.M. Govindaraj couple on May 21, 1959, he did his primary education in Lakshmipuram Government Boys School, JSS High School, PUC in Sarada Vilas College and then got his degrees in B.Sc, B.Ed, M.Sc and Ph.D.

He began his career in 1984 by joining the Department of Studies in Computer Science at the University of Mysore. He went on to become Reader, Professor and also the Head of the Department. He has to his credit 333 papers and produced 20 doctorates. He was the Chief Coordinator of Vijnan Bhavan, President of the Computer Society of India (CSI), Board Member in NET (National Eligibility Test) and SLET (State Level Eligibility Test), Governing Council Member and involved in various research activities.

UoM In-charge VC Prof. Aisha M. Sheriff is seen greeting the new VC Prof. G. Hemanth Kumar at Crawford Hall in city last evening as Registrar Prof. R. Rajanna looks on.

He has travelled to China, Sudan, Russia and other countries on University assignments and also been a Member of Science Societies and on the Board of several educational institutions.

'Became VC based on merit, social justice'

"It has given me great joy to be appointed as the 25th Vice-Chancellor of University of Mysore, as I come from an ordinary background and the selection is based on merit and social justice," said the newly-appointed VC Prof. Hemanth Kumar.

"I am grateful to the Governor, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, Higher Education Minister G.T. Devegowda for choosing me. The University is the sixth oldest University in the country and has over 100 years rich history. We have to take the University to greater heights by concentrating on academic and research activities. I will carry every colleague in the University with me to achieve these goals," he said.

Prof. Hemanth Kumar said that he needs at least three months to plan his objectives for the betterment of the University.

Asked whether he expected to be the VC of University of Mysore, he said that since he had presented nearly 335 national and international papers, he was confident of getting the post.

To another question by the media on the kind of politics in the University and how he was going to handle it, he said that earlier he had planned a Rs.150 crore project for the University. At this time 40 professors had worked with him and he had worked with them in IOE ((Institution of Excellence) and ICD (Information Communication Division) and gained a lot of experience and hence he said that he was very confident of carrying everyone along with him.

Six in-charge VCs in 21 months

After Prof. K.S. Rangappa demitted office on Jan.10, 2017 there have been six in-charge Vice-Chancellors and all the while the University was waiting for a full-time VC. The six who were the in-charge VCs include Prof. Yashwanth Dongre, Prof. Dayanand Mane, Prof. C. Basavaraju, Prof. Ningamma Betsur, Prof.T.K. Umesh and Prof. Aisha M. Sheriff.

100th Convocation

Speaking exclusively to Star of Mysore this morning, Prof. Hemanth Kumar, who is also one of the Vice-Presidents of University of Mysore Alumni Association (UMAA), recalled the time when he went with the letter promoting him as the Reader to his mother Poornima Devi, she had wished him luck and blessed him that he will be the Vice-Chancellor of the University one day.

"It is because of her blessings today, I occupy this prestigious chair. She would have been the happiest person today but unfortunately she passed away in a road accident a couple of years ago," he said in an emotional voice.

"I have great plans for the University and I can achieve it only if I can get the full co-operation of the people in the University. If we work hard then there is no doubt that we will regain the glory that we all saw during the centenary celebrations. There are a lot of unfinished works and I hope to see that they are all completed during my four-year tenure," he said.

"I am also happy that during my tenure as the 25th Vice-Chancellor, the University will have its 100th Convocation," said Prof. Hemanth Kumar.

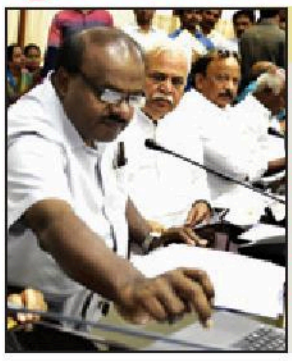
Karnataka launches net-based 'Cauvery' to help online registration of land, assets

Bengaluru, Nov. 17 (UNI)- Karnataka government, which has set an example in the country by adopting IT technology in administration, yesterday launched 'Cauvery', an internet technology-based programme that helps citizens to register their agriculture and other lands, house sites, immovable assets and other services including marriage certification online.



ONLINE SERVICES

- Pre-registration data entry and online appointment booking
- Encumbrance certificate and completion certificate
- Maulya mobile application
- Online e-stamp paper for agreement and affidavits
- Filing of declaration on behalf of farmers under Karnataka Agriculture Credit Miscellaneous Provisions Act

Launching the programme, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy said that citizens can get all information or get registration of their immovable assets online as well as get all information about it with a click of the 'mouse.'

"This will bring down delays in government work and also curb corruption in administration by enabling land, house and commercial sites, purchase of property registration online. This will save people the trouble of running from pillar to post in various departments. This will also bring down the burden on the officers and staff of the concerned departments as they will be able to get information on all these issues online," the CM said.

This on-line facility is developed by Registration and Stamps Department coming under Revenue Ministry. Citizens can pay the government fees online and get the registration. Once registered online the citizens have to send the details to Sub-Registrars of concerned area and they would fix a date for registration and the process will be seamless and less time taking, Kumaraswamy said.

The programme can also be used for registration of marriages. Nine government services of the government can be used under this programme.

Develop habit of gifting books: Littérateur

Jayappa Honnalli inaugurates National Library Week

Mysuru, Nov.17 (RKB&NNN)- Everyone should develop the practice of gifting books during marriages, birthdays and other festivals and thus encourage the habit of reading among people, said littérateur Dr. Jayappa Honnali. He was speaking after inaugurating the 'National Library Week' and Book Exhibition organised by the Department of Public Libraries and City Central Library at the Vivekanandanagar Library branch and said that libraries are like modern temples.

"There is no better friend than books. Parents should see that they draw the children away from mobiles and instead introduce them to books as the mobiles are harmful to the children, while reading books improve their minds and health. Hence, everyone should begin to present books as gifts, he said.

"It was because people like Dr. B.R. Ambedkar and others who used the libraries extensively that they grew into men of stature. The students should understand this by reading books and expand their horizons and grow into better citizens," he said.

City Central Library Deputy Director B. Manjunath said that the library cess paid by the organisations will help run public libraries and hence if the cess does not come then it becomes difficult to run libraries. This results in lot of criticism about the way libraries are run, he added.

Many who had studied in Vivekanandanagar Library branch, written competitive exams and went on to get jobs in the Police, Food, Forest, Court and Backward Classes Departments were honoured on the occasion.

The massive Central Library building coming up in the People's Park is going to be completed in another two to three months. It is going to be the biggest library in the whole of Karnataka and there will be 15-20 Departments here for students, elders and women. It is going to be a centre for literary activities and littérateurs and poets can release their works in this building.

—B. Manjunath
Deputy Director, City Central Library

The Department had organised quiz competition and prizes were distributed to the winners.

Corporator Sunanda Palanethra, in her presidential address, said that computers, internet and other equipment should be provided on the first floor of the libraries along with books on competitive exams like IAS, IPS, KPS for the benefit of the students who are interested in writing the exams within four months.

Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Zone-2 Assistant Commissioner V. Priyadarshini, Library branch in-charge Librarian S. Soumya, Branch Committee Members D.B. Parameshwarappa, Mamatha, V.B. Mynavathi, Hebbal branch in-charge Librarian Kusuma, City Central Library's M. Parvathi and others were present.

Rs.17 crore library cess from MCC due: The MCC owes a due of Rs.17 crore library cess to the Department of Libraries and if that money is given, it will help in the development of libraries, said Department of Public Libraries Deputy Director B. Manjunath.

Reacting to this, Corporation Asst. Commissioner K.H. Manjunath assured that in another three days, Rs.50 lakh would be released. They will give importance to open libraries in different parts of the city where places are available, he added.

Talents-2018 Inter-School Cultural Contest begins

DCF Sidramappa Chalkapure attributes shrinking wildlife space to human-animal conflict

DCF (Mysuru Wildlife Division) Sidramappa Chalkapure is seen addressing the gathering after inaugurating 'Talents-2018' inter-school cultural competition at Mysore West Lions Sevaniketan School in Gokulam this morning. Picture right shows students dressed to go with the theme "Human-Animal Conflict — Finding Peaceful Co-existence."

Mysuru, Nov.17 (RK&DM)- Deputy Conservator of Forests (DCF), Mysuru Wildlife Division, Sidramappa Chalkapure inaugurated 'Talents-2018' — an inter-school cultural competition — jointly organised by Mysore Round Table-21 and Mysore Ladies Circle-9, with the theme "Human-Animal Conflict — Finding Peaceful Co-existence" at Mysore West Lions Sevaniketan School in Gokulam here this morning.

Speaking on the occasion, the DCF observed that shrinking wildlife space is the main cause for human-animal conflict and stressed on the need for finding a balance where both human beings and animals can co-exist.

Highlighting that it is mother earth which provides food to human beings and wildlife, Chalkapure stressed on the importance of protecting wildlife and maintaining a peaceful co-existence between wildlife and human settlements.

Pointing out that with growing population, humans have been encroaching wildlife space, he said that expanding human habitats and activities had led to animals straying into agricultural fields, destroying crops and even killing humans who came their way.

Noting that 'Talents-2018' presents an opportunity for teachers and students to interact and work together to educate our future generations on the importance of protecting wildlife, the DCF said that a positive mindset holds key for finding a lasting solution to increasing man-animal conflicts.

Day-long event

Students studying in fifth to tenth standards from 15 schools in and around the city are taking part in this day-long event which features competitions like singing, essay writing, dance, skit, drama and musical instruments.

All the participants were administered an oath on nature conservation, environment and ecology protection, maintenance of hygiene and no-plastic use.

Senior Karnatak vocalist Jamuna Srinivas, dancer and yoga instructor Sandeep Shivashankar and theatre artiste Anto Christan were the judges of the event.

Prizes will be distributed to the winners later this evening.

Mysuru gets new Mayor, Deputy

MP Pratap Simha was, however, absent for voting and he arrived at the polling hall after the election. BJP rebel candidate M.V. Ramprasad took a neutral stand in both Mayor and Deputy's election. Even as Congress and JD(S) cobbled up a working majority, they gained the support of the lone BSP Member and five Independents.

Yesterday, there was a stiff competition among the coalition partners for the Mayor's post and it was a test for both parties as they had resolved to take on the BJP in Karnataka during the 2019 Lok Sabha elections. They could not have afforded to betray their differences openly.

Congress leaders said that as the party had given the Chief Minister's post to the JD(S), the latter should have no qualms in leaving the Mayor's post to the Congress. Even the JD(S) was insisting on the Mayor's post as the party felt that it had a strong presence in Mysuru.

The consensus, was however, reached in Bengaluru following the intervention of JD(S) Supremo H.D. Deve Gowda and CM Kumaraswamy. Former CM Siddharamaiah is said to have spoken to Deve Gowda and broke the deadlock.

The coalition partners also discussed the power-sharing formula that needs to be adopted for five years. Accordingly, the coalition partner that gets the Mayor's post first (Congress) will enjoy the power for first two years. Likewise, the partner that gets the Mayor's post on the third year (JD-S) will remain in power for the remaining three years.

Standing Committee members: Elections to the four Standing Committees of the MCC were also held this morning. Seven members each were elected unopposed for the Standing Committees. The Presidents of the Standing Committees will be elected at a later stage.

For the Finance and Taxation Standing Committee, Corporators Rukmini Mahadev, Safir Ahmed, Shobha, S. Prema, M. Shivakumar, C. Vedavathi and Sharath Kumar were elected; Health and Sanitation Standing Committee: Eight nomination papers were filed and among them, the papers of Corporator Hajira were rejected as they were not in order. Finally, Corporators Sathwik, Ramesh, Taslim, Lokesh, C. Sridhar, Samiulla and Geetha Yoganand were elected to the Committee.

For the Town Planning Standing Committee too, there were eight nominations and the nomination of C. Sridhar was rejected as he was already elected as the member of Health and Sanitation Standing Committee. Finally, Lakshmi, R. Nagaraju, K.V. Sridhar, Syed Afrathullah, Ashwini Ananthu, R. Rangaswamy and Shanthamma were elected unopposed.

For the Audit Standing Committee, Mohammad Rafiq, Begum alias Pallavi, Srinivas, Roopa, K. Champaka, Usha and Ayub Khan were elected unopposed.

Excise Commissioner V. Yashwanth, who is the in-charge Regional Commissioner, was Mayoral Election Returning Officer and Additional Deputy Commissioner T. Yogesh was the Deputy Polling Officer.

"Will not give up land"

Meanwhile, Mandya DC N. Manjushree yesterday inspected Government lands and other areas at different places attached to the proposed project.

'Not a statue': In Bengaluru, Water Resources Minister D.K. Shivakumar claimed there was a proposal to build a tower at the KRS and not a statue of Mother Cauvery. "It will have an elevator and will be like Eiffel Tower so that people can go up and get a good view of the Dam and surroundings," he told reporters.

Engineers oppose: Cauvery Technical Advisory Committee of the Institution of Engineers-India (IEI) has opposed the proposed statue of Mother Cauvery. The members opposed the project citing it as "unscientific" and opined that the project was "anti-farmer" and "destructive."

A meeting was held at the IEI last evening where Major Gen. (retd.) S.G. Vombatkere said, it is not right for the Government to take a decision without seeking the opinion of public and experts.

Experts say, to construct such a huge statue, a foundation of at least 35 ft. should be dug. Advanced machines have to be used which would affect the Dam and there are possibilities of tremors in the region, they felt.

'Shameful waste of money': Environmentalists have called the project as environmentally destructive and would deface heritage nature of Brindavan Gardens and KRS. They have termed it as a shameful waste of money and cheap politics played in the name of River Cauvery.

Crushers offer to stop mining: Quarry and crushing unit owners have promised to stop quarrying in the region if expert report states that the KRS is facing a threat from mining activities.

Speaking to reporters in Mandya yesterday, R.C. Naganna, President of Quarry and Stone Crusher Owners Assn., said: "The District Administration has banned mining activities citing threat to Dam. As a result, thousands of labourers, who are dependent on mining activities, have been affected." He added that they were ready to stop mining if experts feel that the Dam faces threat from mining blasts.
